Annual Meeting Working Groups to Connect Participants at the 2010 Annual Meeting

Following the overwhelming success of the working group initiative introduced in 2009, President Carol Lee and General Program Chair Ronald Rochon have assembled 14 working groups for the 2010 Annual Meeting. Working groups provide opportunities for small groups of 20 participants each to meet across the Annual Meeting to discuss a topic of mutual interest related to the broad theme: “Understanding Complex Ecologies in a Changing World.” Working groups were formed in April through an open call issued to all AERA members and registered attendees. Each group will hold discussions before or at the beginning of the Annual Meeting to define the specific questions it wants to explore and to identify the specific sessions the group wishes to attend together as the basis for their discussions. Each group will be anchored by a Presidential Session on that topic. Working groups for the 2010 Annual Meeting include the following:

The Use of Epidemiological Methods in the Study of Educational Inequality
Chair: Jill McNew-Birren, Washington University in St. Louis

What Neuroscience Tells Us About Complex Ecologies of Learning
