

AERA Grants Program Awards for 2006–2007

AERA is pleased to announce continued support for the AERA Grants Program from the National Science Foundation (NSF) and the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) of the Institute of Education Sciences. The program provides funding for education policy- and practice-related research that uses quantitative methods to analyze the large-scale, nationally and internationally representative data sets supported by NCES and NSF. All awards are competitive, with selection based on the excellence of the proposed research and the expertise of the awardees. Congratulations to the following outstanding researchers who have received awards through the AERA Grants Program in the 2006–2007 academic year.

RESEARCH GRANTS

Jeffrey Anderson, Indiana University–Purdue University, Indianapolis
Margaret Clements, New York University
Pamela Davis-Kean, University of Michigan
Stacey Farber, University of Cincinnati
Jason Fletcher, Yale University
Scott Graves, University of Kentucky
Stephanie Moller, University of North Carolina, Charlotte
Hyunjoon Park, University of Pennsylvania
Jennifer Schmidt and Lee Shumow, Northern Illinois University
Paul Umbach, Indiana University
Christopher Weiss, Columbia University, and Brian Carolan, College of Staten Island, CUNY
Yonghong Jade Xu, University of Memphis
Sukkyung You, University of California, Santa Barbara

DISSERTATION GRANTS

Rashmi Barua, Boston University
James Benson, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Donna Bobbitt-Zeher, Ohio State University
Jason Dunick, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign
Demetra Kalogrides, University of California, Davis
Lu Lu, Iowa State University
Lizabeth Malone, Teachers College, Columbia University
Charles Mathies, University of Georgia
Julia Ogg, Michigan State University
Gyehoon Oh, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Chanho Park, University of Wisconsin, Madison
Xuejun Shen, Stanford University
Sarah Simmons, University of Virginia
Susan Skipper, George Washington University
Lisa Stanley, University of California, Los Angeles
Pedro Villarreal III, Pennsylvania State University
Elizabeth Zachry, Harvard University
Guang Zeng, University of Pennsylvania
Fuhua Zhai, Columbia University

Proposals for Research Grants, Dissertation Grants, and the AERA Institute on Statistical Analysis for Education Policy are currently being accepted for the 2007–2008 year. Further information about the AERA Grants Program is available at the website below; or contact Jeanie Murdock, phone 805-964-5264 or e-mail jmurdock@era.net.

<http://www.era.net/grantsprogram>