
ER publishes scholarly articles that are of general significance to the education research community and that come from a wide range of areas of education research and related disciplines. ER aims to make major programmatic research and new findings of broad importance widely accessible to the scholarly community and interested policy makers and practitioners. Article categories include Feature Articles, Reviews/Essays, Briefs, Technical Comments, Policy Forum, Letters, and Book Reviews. Published nine times per year, ER is received by AERA’s 25,000 members and institutions worldwide.

The editor or editorial team is responsible for accepting and rejecting manuscripts on the basis of the quality of the scholarship presented and the suitability of the subject matter for ER, guiding manuscripts through the review process using a designated Web-based system, overseeing revisions, soliciting content as necessary, and planning issues. In addition to a modest honorarium, AERA provides an annual discretionary grant to directly support editorial work on the journal.

The new editor(s) will assume responsibility for the 2020 volume year (Volume 49) and will begin to receive manuscripts in July 2019 for publication in 2020. The new editor(s) should expect to receive new manuscripts through June 30, 2022.

Nominees should be recognized scholars with background and interests appropriate for the readership of ER. Nominees should possess managerial and organizational skills as well as publishing/editorial experience. The Committee encourages applicant editors to plan for diverse editorial teams along the multiple dimensions appropriate for ER, AERA, and education research, including racial, ethnic, geographical, linguistic, and gender diversity, as well as diversity in disciplinary perspectives.

The Journal Publications Committee encourages prompt submission of nominations so that review of candidates can proceed during the winter of 2019. Please send all inquiries and nominations to John Neikirk, AERA Director of Publications, at pubs@aera.net. If you wish to nominate an editor or editorial team, please send a letter of nomination and curriculum vita for the candidate(s). Self-nominees will be sent a letter outlining application requirements. Applications are due March 15, 2019.
